The Curate's Letter

Dear Friends,

In 1976, Mother Teresa of Calcutta agreed to give a lecture on poverty in Cambridge. The hall was filled to over-flowing with professors and scholars eager to hear words of wisdom from the woman who battled with the effects of poverty every day, even if it was to assist the dying rather than the living. She began by saying that the great problem in the Western world was loneliness: lack of community meant that people died alone. Only the bread of Christ could remedy this. In India the problem too was of community. But here the enormous numbers in small places meant the spread of disease. Only the bread of Christ could remedy this. She then took a loaf of bread, broke it, and gave one half to be passed around each side of the audience, and commanded them "Share it!" And Mother Teresa left the room. Her lecture lasted two minutes, and she had said it all.

John Sentamu, soon to be made Archbishop of York told us this story at the Diocesan Conference in September. He had been asked to reflect on the theme "A Passion for God's People", and talked about his experience of poverty in our own country and around the world - and he recommended the solution given first by Jesus, and so dramatically demonstrated by Mother Teresa: "Share the bread!"

I felt very glad, I could say passionately happy, to belong to the community of Amberley, because it is a community that shares money, time and talents. Whenever a new disaster or crisis is announced on the news, we are always asked to organise a collection – and the response is always phenomenal! So many people give their time to running the parish: helping, delivering, supporting and visiting. And many continue to use their skills in projects in the wider world. All seem concerned to join in national debates on the big issues: poverty, conflict, justice and peace.

An article in the Church Times last month looked at two types of people: those who look inward, focus on just one issue, were called hedgehogs – and those who look outward, concerned with multiple issues, were labelled foxes. The hedgehog draws everything into himself – protected by his prickles when he rolls up into a ball. The fox is always prowling around looking at what's happening in the world, alert and ready to seize the opportunity - anyone unfortunate enough to put a dustbin bag out too early soon learns – his interests are scattered far and wide! And the writer emphasised that there is of course room for both hedgehogs and foxes.

Jonathan Sacks, the Chief Rabbi, likened the hedgehog to the saint who focuses on the perfections of self, and the fox to the wise man who focuses on the perfection of society – and we are probably a mixture of both!

It's easy for a church community to become hedgehog-like: concentrating on worship, membership, buildings – their own concerns. And while these are very important, it's also important to be fox-like – outward-going, involved in the whole of life: as the article concludes, “it is both a greater and grander calling to be a fox – for it leads not to certainty, comfort of clarity: rather it is the way of trust, trial and transformation . . . as it reflects the complexity of God’s purposes and responds to God’s love.”

So foxy people of Amberley: thank you for scattering your money, time and talents to help all in need in the world – thank you for continually sharing.

Jesus turned the world upside down by sharing his bread – Mother Teresa and those who continue her work change lives around the world – and your sharing makes a difference day by day.

God bless you,

Ann Morris

Autumn Course - “Getting Down to Basics”

It is not too late to join the course on ‘Christian Basics’ put together by Ann Morris and myself, in consultation with Adrian Slade, for those wishing to gain a grasp of the fundamentals of our Christian belief. The style of the course is such that no prior knowledge on the part of those attending will be assumed. All discussion will be in small groups and is designed so that everyone feels able to contribute and is not put off by those of us who appear ‘in the know’.

The course will involve seven more sessions and will take place in the Littleworth Hall from 7.30pm till 9pm on the following Tuesday evenings:

1st, 8th, 15th, 22nd, 29th November
6th, 13th December

Unlike most other courses of this type, whilst covering all areas of our faith, “Getting Down to Basics” follows the shape of the Eucharist. So while it is not a course on the Eucharist as such, it will be valuable in making connections between what we believe and how we worship.

Realising it might not be possible for all of you to attend every one of these weeks, though this is very desirable, we have designed each session to be reasonably ‘stand-alone’, and also the paperwork given out each week to be possible to follow by those not present on that occasion. For any wanting to join the course at this stage we can let you have the hand-outs for the first three weeks, and although we feel they are fairly self-explanatory would be happy to go through with you what we have been talking about so far.

Letter from Leominster

So, what's it like being 'collared?'

Being only two months into my curacy I can't give any sort of definitive answer, if such a thing exists for something as diverse as the ordained ministry, but here are a few thoughts.

I'm still me! But...there is now part of 'me' which is almost public property: when I walk around Leominster town centre wearing my dog collar I am seen as the Priory (hmm - dating back to the 12th century, leaky roof, pigeon nest in the porch... but with a lively congregation and lots going on, so perhaps not so bad). Instant elevation too, with 'Hello vicar' being the most usual greeting.

In Leominster the collar is a licence to smile at people, as the response is very positive. When my brother was incumbent of an inner city parish he found the opposite to be true, so it does not apply everywhere.

I have had some very different experiences from church life in Amberley.

yesterday (11th September) I was helping with a baptism service for 4 children, with between 80-100 guests for each family and an interesting attitude to the time of the service! As it was the second such service I have been to, I was more prepared for the families wandering in up to 15 minutes after we were due to start. The service was still one full of joy and life and good training in voice projection.

The week long holiday club for nearly 100 children was another new experience, although I spent most of my time in the kitchen, as all the volunteers and conscripts had been sorted out long before I arrived. As the Priory is such a large building, the capacity for noise was most impressive, but its versatility even more so. For 5 days it was transformed into 'One Incredible Club' for activities, drama, stories, dance and song.

I find the daily service in the Priory very valuable, as a calm start to what can be a busy day: Monday to Friday we meet for silent prayer at 7a.m. in St Peter's Chapel (where the high altar used to be), followed by morning prayer and Eucharist, then home to breakfast. On Saturday I get a lie-in, as the Eucharist is at 9a.m. The walk from our house takes 10-15 minutes and is a lovely walk, with lots to see. Of course, it will be rather different in the winter months.....?

It is still very odd not to be in Amberley: I have to stop myself saying 'we do such-and-such', meaning Holy Trinity. I am just beginning to use 'we' for the Priory, but it is a slow process, as Amberley was my home for so long.

The rest of the Sanders are fine, with Abi continuing to enjoy life in Bath, Katherine and David getting ready to go back to university and Malcolm re-applying to uni for next year. Mark is doing a brilliant job as a 'house-husband', acting as my secretary (yes, I do know I am spoiled), keeping the house going and cooking: his chocolate brownie sold out at the Priory Fete.

If people would like to come out to the wilds of Herefordshire to see us, we'd be very pleased to see you!

with love

Pam

Pied Piper Appeal

Gloucestershire's own Pam Ayres is to head the bill for this year's 8th annual Pied Piper 'Celebration of Christmas' at Tewkesbury Abbey on Wednesday December 7th at 7.30pm.

Pam, who is a vice patron of the charity, will be making her second appearance at the concert. Last time she thrilled the audience with many of her Christmas pieces, and The Pied Piper is pleased to be welcoming her back again this year.

Starring alongside Pam, will be an award winning soloist from The Royal Academy of Music, Tewkesbury Ladies Choir, the Children's County Choir and John Rockley from BBC Radio Gloucestershire. Once again the Choir of the Abbey School and the Tewkesbury Town Band will be back to add their own familiar tone to the evening.

The concert has always been a mix of traditional carols, seasonal readings and music and while the format changed slightly last year to create a party atmosphere to celebrate the opening of the Children's Centre, this year will see a return to the customary performances that have become such a firm favourite in the County's festive calendar.

"Whilst the concert is undoubtedly a major fundraising event for The Pied Piper Appeal, it is also an opportunity to say thank you to the people who have supported us during the year," said Howard Cunningham-Smith, Appeal Director.

For more information or tickets please call The Pied Piper Appeal Office on 08454 226119

‘Breath-stoppingly beautiful, yet earthy and packed with panto-style humour’

This family show, based on Hans Christian Andersen’s fairytale, is suitable for all ages from primary school to 100!

Stroud based Taurus Voice theatre company will be providing workshops for the children at Amberley school in the week preceding the show.

A Wonderful Evening

Putting on events in the village is always a risk. Shall we be able to sell enough tickets? Will the act be any good? Will the audience enjoy it? Will the sound be too loud/too soft? We do our research and find out as much as we can, but there are aspects beyond our control and to be truthful, we never know quite what we are letting ourselves and our audience in for! Of course there is a large element of risk for the artists who have no idea of the reception they will receive. Equally, buying tickets is always a risk. You never know whether it is going to be your cup of tea until you get there, and then it’s too late.

One Friday evening last month was an occasion when all the risks paid off. Thanks to the Air in G rural touring scheme, Amberley Village Events hosted an evening of mandolin music by the talented duo Hilary James and Simon Mayor. They delighted us with their virtuoso playing and singing and enchanted us with their witty off beat humour. During the interval there was good food and good conversation. It was a truly memorable occasion and one that raised the spirits of the many people present. It got livelier and livelier as the evening progressed, ending with a wonderful encore. It was a real celebration of live entertainment and Hilary and Simon voted it one of their best evenings ever.

Bad luck those who couldn’t come or were unsure –how about giving it a go next time?

Church Christmas Card – and Uganda

Yet again this year, we are having a variation on a Church Christmas Card. As you may recall, in 2003 Sunday Club made an extra large card onto which everyone was invited to send their Christmas wishes to others in the community, and at the same time people were invited to make a donation to a specified cause, raising over £600 which was divided between The Haven in Gloucester and towards specialist wheelchair equipment for Cynthia's great niece. Last year Sunday Club produced individual cards for our Christmas wishes, and these were hung on a decorated tree, the money raised (£550) going to Winston's Wish, again a local charity. This year the ACC have decided that the money raised will be sent further afield but with a local connection: as you may recall, Joe Lauzier went out to a primary school in Uganda in September for a few months to help set up a new resource centre. He has reported back that they are desperately poor and short of such basic items as pencils and paper. The money raised by our Christmas Card will help them buy these and other basic classroom needs.

More details will be in next month's magazine, and we also look forward to receiving a report from Joe on his experiences in Uganda.

An unusual visitor to the Amberley Inn

During the summer many people have made complaints about the cattle on the common, and certainly sometimes they visit gardens or garages. But on the whole the residents enjoy seeing them grazing peacefully. However, when a Fresian Lafy entered the Inn through the front door and made for the dining room, some quick action by the Manager and surprised staff was needed to prevent serious damage
